AN INTERESTING ACCOUNT!
Stone in the Bladder Expelled by Using Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy."

Mr. S. W. Hicks, of Pleasant Valley, Dutchess Co., N. Y., the son of Mr. E. S. Hicks, whose name may have appeared in this journal in connection with an article similar to this, was, like his father, afflicted with Stone in the Bladder, only that his case was more serious than his father's. On the appearance of the disease the father advised the son to write to Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who, he said, would tell him what to do. Dr. Kennedy replied, suggesting the use of "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy," which had worked so successfully in the father's case. Mr. Hicks, who had been assured by the local physicians that they could do nothing more for him, tried "Favorite Remedy" at a venture. After two weeks' use of it he passed a stone ¾ of an inch long and of the thickness of a pipe-stem. Since then he has had no symptoms of the return of the trouble. Here is a sick man healed. What better results could have been expected? What greater benefit could medical science confer? The end was gained; that is surely enough. Dr. Kennedy assures the public, by a reputation which he cannot afford to forfeit or imperil, that the "Favorite Remedy" does invigorate the Blood, cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder complaints, as well as all those diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females. "Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" for sale by all druggists.

STATE OF MAINE.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

A PROCLAMATION.

In accordance with a pious and time-honored custom, come down to us from the Pilgrim Fathers, and found so suitable to our love and veneration, I, Harris M. Plaisted, Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Council, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, the thirteenth day of April, next, as a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer. And I do recommend to the Christian people of our State to keep this their annual fast; refrain from labor, business, amusements, and in their homes and houses of public worship, humble themselves before Him whose mercy endureth forever; supplicating His favor upon themselves, the State and nation; confessing their sins and seeking forgiveness of the same, in humility of spirit. "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

Given at the Council Chamber at Augusta this thirty-first day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixth.

HARRIS M. PLAISTED.

By the Governor.
JOSEPH O. SMITH, Secretary of State.

As a Vestal Virgin.

It is difficult to kill a Democratic leader—so that he will stay dead—, as the Democratic party has often found to its sorrow. That political organization has been engaged busily for many years now in attempting to rid itself of men who have led it to defeat, or who because of their incompetency or unpopularity, or other "outs," were considered unfit to run a political race. So these men have been politically slaughtered, wakes have been held over them, and they have been buried deep under ground. Grass has sprouted and flourished over the mounds, and other signs of decomposition have made themselves manifest. But the official period of mourning has not long expired before the corpses burst the cerements of the grave, walk among living men, present themselves at Democratic feasts, and demand a nomination for something.

The latest who has resurrected himself is Samuel J. Tilden, buried at Cincinnati in 1880. He rises to express his kindly approval of Thomas Jefferson, and to modestly intimate that he is willing to become Jefferson's successor. This he does in a letter to the New Haven Democrats, tactfully preferring letter-writing to an appearance before them while the smell of the soil still clings to his shroud. He warns them in a voice that is anything but ghostly that this government is changing into "an elective despotism" (whatever that is) and "meddling in everything belonging to the States or to individuals"—doubtless referring to income tax suits and the like. He expresses his conviction of the necessity of keeping alive "the glimmering spark of virtue and public honor," and intimates that he is the fellow best fitted by nature and training to take charge of that job.

From all this it plainly appears that Mr. Tilden has crawled out of the grave and into the light of publicity; that during his interment he has been transformed into something rich and strange, making his appearance this time in the rôle of a vestal virgin, and that the Democratic party isn't rid of him, as it fondly hoped. Those who were thinking things have changed since Sammy died are rudely roused from their unsubstantial dream. Mr. Tilden is the livest man in the party.

SOME interesting statistics of the vast coal industries of Pennsylvania for 1881 are just issued from the office of the Secretary of Internal Affairs. In the anthracite regions 319 collieries have been in operation, employing 75,169 hands and turning out 27,929,128 tons at a cost of $29,454,781 in wages, or $1.06.55 per ton. There were 382 bituminous collieries in operation during the year, which produced 15,692,923 tons of bituminous coal, at a cost in wages of $14,540,057, an average of half a mill over 92 cents per ton. In the anthracite collieries the employés worked on the average a trifle over 275 days during the year and produced 373.14 tons each, earning on the average $397.58 in wages, or a fraction more than $1.44 for each working day. In the bituminous mines the workmen had an average of 217 days' work during the year and produced 442.37 tons each, earning an average total of $407.20, or a little over $1.87 for each working day. As a large proportion of the employés are "helpers," or boys under age, who are under age, who are paid small wages, the actual earnings of adult miners are of course considerably in excess of the average shown by the statistical returns.

THE first victory recorded for the Republicans occurred in September, 1855, in the State election of Vermont, which was gained by a fusion with the Whigs in the election of Gov. Royce by a large majority, but at the election on the same month in Maine the new party sustained a defeat. In October, 1855, in Ohio, Salmon P. Chase was elected Governor by 15,220 plurality over William Medill, Democrat, Chase receiving the support of both the Republican and American parties. Twenty-nine Republicans and six Democrats were elected to the Ohio Senate, and eighty Republicans and thirty-one Democrats to the House.

MONSIGNOR CAPEL, whose first appearance was made among the dukes and duchesses of Disraeli's "Lothair," is now discovered in Rome big with the fate of the future of the British relations with the Vatican. If Roman gossip can be believed he is to take up the tangled web of Pontifical diplomacy and rehabilitate the friendly mission of the Papacy to the Court of the infidel. If any prelate in the Curiæ is capable of this delicate business, the astute propagandist of the English aristocracy may be trusted to bring it about—for his endowments are the highest expression of Italian diplomacy and English breeding.

WASHINGTON special's description of Van Wyck's speech: Shortly after 2 this afternoon the Senate was startled by a wild, inhuman cry, and there followed a medley of piercing shrieks and howls of a variety never before heard in the Senate. The spectators who were at first appalled by the noise, soon learned that there was no real danger. The cause of the uproar was the earnest effort of "the wild man from Nebraska," as Senator Van Wyck is playfully called by his associates, to convey to the Senate the idea that he was opposed to the Tariff Commission bill.

THE Supreme Court of the United States upholds the right of the State of Texas to tax telegraph messages within its own limits, but denies its right to tax messages which originate or go outside the State, as that belongs to inter-State commerce, and denies also the right of the State to tax messages sent by agents of the government as an unconstitutional interference with the execution of the government's powers. Texas has taxed all messages one cent each.

THE Baltimore Medical and Surgical Society have refused to admit a colored physician to membership. The rejected candidate is Dr. Whitfield Winsey, a graduate of the Harvard Medical School. Several physicians testified that Dr. Winsey was an intelligent and experienced surgeon and physician, and a doctor who had been in the rebel army declared that his politics would never interfere with his recognition of scientific merits in a colored man. Twenty-five ballots were cast, and seven negative votes (five causing a rejection) were given.

THE new five cent postage stamp, which will probably be hereafter known as "the Garfield stamp," will be issued by the post office department and placed on sale at all post offices throughout the country on the 10th inst. Mrs. Garfield was consulted concerning every detail, and the portrait is believed to be the best extant of the late President.

MR. TILDEN wrote a long letter to the New Haven Democrats who celebrated Jefferson's birthday, but Gen. Hancock's letter was "short and merely formal." Perhaps Gen. Hancock considers Jefferson's birth "a local issue."

THE petition for the pardon of Sergeant Mason, prepared by the Garfield club of New York, is over a mile in length, and contains over 350,000 names.

SIXTY thousand bushels of seeds were distributed last week among the sufferers by the forest fires in Michigan.

A Lion-Tamer's Experience.

First Entrance Into a Lion's Cage—Breaking In a Ferocious Three-Year Old.

"While with Robinson's circus," said Mr. Neylan, "I became acquainted with Bill Reynolds the well known lion performer, and became a favorite with him. He was growing old and was taken ill quite frequently, thereby necessitating the withdrawal of that feature in the entertainment. I was in the habit of playing with the lions outside the cage, and one day I asked Archie McCarty, the boss canvassman, who had charge of the cage, if he would let me go inside. He laughed at me, and insinuated that I would back out mighty quick. I looked about for a cowhide, and being unable to find one, substituted a broom handle and started in. There were two lions in the cage, and a tiger, the famous lion, Old Prince, the pet lioness, Jennie, and a beautiful tiger of magnificent proportions. Old Prince was a stubborn, bull-headed creature, and meant mischief every time. I was about sixteen years of age at this time, and was in good physical condition. The moment I entered the animals regarded me as an intruder, and Old Prince commenced to assume a war-like deportment. I belabored him vigorously with the broom handle, maintaining my self-possession and nerve, and ere I left the cage he was humbly submissive, and, with the other animals, would promptly do my bidding. I informed the manager that I had found a substitute for Reynolds, and would produce him that night. The cage was drawn into the ring, and at the appointed time I appeared, greatly to the surprise and bewilderment of the manager. As I started toward the cage he shouted: "Come away, you fool, you'll get eaten up." But I went on with the performance, and the animals behaved beautifully. At another time Robinson had a young lion, three years of age, of great strength and ferocious disposition. I determined to break him, and selecting an empty cage with two partitions, I had it drawn into the woods one Sunday, and had a terrible encounter with him for three hours. The enraged beast refused to obey the lash, and it became necessary to use hot irons instead of rawhide. After he had been subdued I petted him for a time and furnished him with a substantial meal, and we became the best of friends. All the clothing I wore at the close of the encounter was a pair of stockings and a waistband to my shirt. I subsequently broke another pair for Robinson, and had a tough tussel with them, but nothing in comparison with the three years old.

Mr. Neylan was asked if he had ever found himself in extreme peril.

"Well, yes," replied Mr. Neylan. "I was placed once in a most uncomfortable situation. Jennie, the pet lioness, was with young, and one day I had occasion to enter her cage to repair it. The sound of the hammer employed in driving nails appeared to frighten her, and suddenly she fastened her teeth upon the calf of my leg. I had the presence of mind to let her alone, although she was tearing my flesh terribly, and seizing my hammer I watched my opportunity, when she had caught my wrist between her teeth, and thrust the handle down her throat, choking off her hold. Then she sought to leap upon me, and stripped me of my clothing, beside leaving the bloody imprint of her claws upon my back. The blows of the hammer did not seem to have any effect, and at an opportune moment, one of the keepers, seeing my predicament, seized an iron bar and belabored her vigorously, while I kept accompaniment with my hammer. We conquered her at last, and I left the cage to dress myself and my wounds. She never disturbed me again, and was always gentle and tractable. Once, previous to this, Jennie knocked me down, and Old Prince evidently intended to make a meal of me, but my good fortune and courage did not desert me, and I whipped them both into subjection with my cowhide.

"The best time to begin to break lions," said Mr. Neylan, "is when they are cubs of eight to ten months growth. My practice was to devote an hour a day in training, always exercising them on empty stomachs and feeding them immediately afterward; if the animal is tractable and submissive he should be treated kindly, but if he is inclined to be stubborn and ugly, then you must obtain the mastery by a vigorous use of the cowhide. They are inclined to be treacherous even when the most frolicsome and gentle, and it can be shown that the majority of lion performers who have been killed, have allowed too much liberty to their pets. The objective point of the cowhide is the face and eye, to blind and confuse them, and they smart and are forced into retirement by a vigorous flagellation. It must not be thought for an instant that one can look them steadily in the eye, and thus disarm them. The lion does become somewhat blinded by a steady gaze, but the moment he lowers his head and gives it an ominous shake, then look for danger, and the more promptly the lash is applied the better. The tiger is more treacherously inclined than the lion, and more difficulty is experienced in their training. Have trained Asiatic, African and Mexican lions, and some of them have developed remarkable power of intelligence and sagacity.

Rosecrans and Garfield.

The Washington correspondent of the democratic Louisville Courier-Journal, an intimate friend and warm admirer of Garfield, in referring to the malignity of the foes of the dead President in publishing his letters since his death, and the Rosecrans letter in particular, says:

"How easy it is to distort the meaning, the motives, of letters twenty years old. For my part, I don't know 'Rosey,' as they call him, and perhaps for that reason I don't like him. I think his appointment to the head of the democratic congressional committee was a folly closely bordering on an outrage, and characteristic of the idiots who represent the democratic party, perennially, in Congress. The beauty of it is that few of them survive from one Congress to another to tell the tale. But this, apart, the effort to foist Gen. Rosecrans' war record upon the democratic party, and to elevate him in consequence as a democratic nominee for President—and over the prostrate and degraded form of the dead Garfield, is the most unchivalric and the stupedist political maneuvre I ever heard of. I remember very well when the Ohio democrats nominated him for governor, and got for their pains an insult. If anybody is to be taken from the Pacific coast (much as I deprecate the idea of admitting political possibilities into the judiciary) I am for Judge Field, a great man and a good man, not for Gen. Rosecrans, whom I associate and confound with Bragg, as a hero of lost opportunities, lacking the sympathies of civil life and identification with the instincts of the people."

Popular Astronomy. By Simon Newcomb, LL. D. (New York: Harpers). In the present edition of this valuable and deservedly popular work, the author has added chapters concerning the transit of Venus, some cometary discoveries and other notes, so that the reader may be possessed of the latest facts and theories concerning the heavenly bodies as viewed from the earth. Thus the fourth edition improves upon the third, which, however, had received such additions beyond the subject-matter of the second as science, up to its date, had afforded. Professor Newcomb writes in a dignified style, a happy medium between the reading-made-easy and the over-technical. He selects with great judgment the portions of his subject which will instruct and please the popular mind—that is to say, the intelligent body of readers, not specialists in science, but desiring sound, clear and sufficiently minute acquaintance with the course and progress of modern knowledge. The history and philosophy of Astronomy are fully treated, while its technical side is made less prominent, and a glossary is added to explain the terms which might not otherwise be understood. Ancient Astronomy, the System according to Copernicus, Gravitation, Practical Astronomy, the Solar System and Stellar Universe are heads under which are grouped interesting and fully illustrated chapters.

Science and Culture. By Thomas Henry Huxley, LL. D., F. R. S. (New York: D. Appleton & Co). A volume made up of thirteen essays, written during the past seven years by Professor Huxley, delivered before various societies and clubs, and which afterwards appeared in magazines and reviews. The range of their topics is that in which Professor Huxley is at home and effective, and the large clientèle of readers that he is sure of addressing with each fresh volume, will welcome the present collection of essays.

The Brain and Its Functions. By J. Luys, Physician to the Hospice de la Salpetrière (New York: D. Appleton & Co.; Portland: Hoyt, Fogg & Donham). This volume of the Scientific Series treats of the anatomy of the brain, the sensibilities and properties of the nerves and of cerebral processes and phenomena. It is especially suited to scientists, but the general reader will find the work clear in style and containing passages of interesting notes upon mental conditions.

Physical Education. By Felix L. Oswald, M. D. (New York: D. Appleton & Co.; Portland: Hoyt, Fogg & Donham). This volume contains some good suggestions as to fresh air, exercise, etc., but is very greatly discounted by its excited and unbalanced style and its crotchety theories; and it lacks the moderate and judicious tone which science and observation would give to the remarks of a reliable and sound practitioner.

Money-Making for Ladies. By Ella Rodman Church (New York: Harpers). A very readable and attractive little volume, giving hints as to various ways in which ladies may work and increase their limited incomes without entering the ranks of professional workers. It frequently happens that home duties or other reasons may prevent a woman from giving the time needed for steady work at a profession or trade, or for leaving her house for the duration of business hours. It is for the benefit of such partially employed women that Mrs. Church writes this friendly little book, and points out various suitable occupations in a practical and eminently pleasant manner. It is full of good suggestions, and will win for the author thanks and liking of many women who will profit by its hints.

The Rose. By H. B. Ellwanger (New York: Dodd, Mead & Co.). This tasteful volume is written in the interests of rose cultivators, by a practical florist. It gives plain and careful directions as to soil, planting and pruning of rose bushes, the insects and diseases that attack them, and the choice of varieties as regards beauty of flower, hardiness, etc., concluding with a full descriptive catalogue of varieties. This volume will be found indispensable to professional or amateur rosarians.

Eunice Lathrop, Spinster (New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons: Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon), is a remarkably bright, piquant and readable story. It is said to be written by Mrs. Annette Lucille Noble, whose former novel, Uncle Jack's Executors, was so deservedly a favorite. The same unforced liveliness, grace and distinctness are to be found in the author's newer story; and, except for the episode of the murder trial, which is a sensational element rather out of the line of the quiet brightness of the rest of the novel—readers will enjoy the somewhat rare pleasure of a story almost without incident, and with no attempt at over-subtle characterizations, but full of healthy and natural life.

A Tallahassee Girl (Boston: J. R. Osgood & Co.; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon). This addition to the Round Robin Series amounts to little as a story, but will serve very pleasantly as a guidebook to Florida. As to the fiction, it has an inexperienced air and is rather vaguely outlined, but its pictures of Southern landscape are good, and novel-readers can pass an hour or two agreeably enough in following the fortunes of the Tallahassee Girl.

Esau Runswick. By Katharine S. Macquoid (New York: Putnam's; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon). A finely touched story of quiet English life, written in Mrs. Macquoid's sympathetic and practised style. It is a novel worth reading once and again.

Her Picture. (Boston: Roberts Brothers; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon). A really bewitching novel of Continental society, not thoroughly good form, but at once dashing and innocent. The compliments which the hero and contre-héro offer to the heroine are more direct than ingenious; the heroine has no ambitions of the toilette beyond a dress by M. Worth; the novel falls short of being a fine flower of fiction, but is of the very prettiest of muslin roses of the Parisian milliner. It is full of life and charm, and is by far the most entertaining novel yet published in the popular series to which it belongs.

XLVIIth Congress—1st Session.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 7.

Mr. Ellis of La., presented a memorial of the mayor and several commercial bodies of New Orleans, praying for congressional action on the Mississippi levee bill. Referred.

On motion of Mr. Randall of Pennsylvania, a bill was passed, relieving from the charge of desertion soldiers in the volunteer service during the late war, on proof that they served faithfully until the expiration of their term of enlistment, or until May 1, 1865, but who failed to be mustered out and receive honorable discharge.

Mr. Blackburn of Kentucky, offered a resolution directing the committee on expenditures in the War Department to inquire if any abuses exist or have existed in adjudication of claims in the Quartermaster General's, Commissary General's and Third Auditor's offices, and report their findings, together with such recommendation as it may deem proper in the settlement of such claims.

Mr. Robeson of New Jersey, offered as a substitute a similar resolution, but with a preamble reciting that it had been asserted on the floor of the House by a member that he had evidence in his possession which showed that certain clerks of the government had acted fraudulently and corruptly.

Mr. Robeson advocated his substitute, declaring that he was not willing to order an investigation on mere idle rumors, but after debate, he modified his preamble so as to read, "Whereas, it has been publicly declared by a member of this House, on this floor, that there are reasonable grounds to believe," etc. This was accepted by Mr. Blackburn, as an amendment to his resolution, which was thereon adopted.

The House, at 2,05, went into committee of the whole on the tariff commission bill. Mr. Haskell advocated the passage of the bill, and made an exhaustive argument in support of the protective system.

The committee, at 4 30, rose, and the House took a recess until 7.30, the evening session being for consideration of pension bills.

But a few members were present when the House met at 7.30. After passing 17 pension bills the House, at 9.40, adjourned.

POLITICAL.

Oregon Democrats Denounce the President's Veto—Their State Ticket.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—The Oregon Democratic Convention adopted resolutions to-day demanding legislative regulation of railroads; tariff reform; attributing the assassination of President Garfield to the Republican spoils system; denouncing polygamy; favoring repeal of navigation laws; and demanding that the congressional delegation do its utmost to secure an appropriation for Oregon river and harbor improvements The resolution on the Chinese question is as follows:

That the President's veto of the Chinese immigration bill is a public misfortune. It sets a degrading mark of competition with coolies from China upon the labor and workingmen of America; it treats with contemptuous scorn the unanimous protests and appeals of the entire Pacific coast. On behalf of the people of Oregon we disapprove and condemn it, and declare it to be the duty of every citizen regardless of party to express his disapproval with his vote as well as with his voice."

The ticket complete is as follows: Secretary of State, J. K. Weathersford; Treasurer, H. Abraham; Superintendent of Instruction, W. H Worthington: State Printer, Wilbur Cornell; Supreme Judge, Edward Shattuck.

THE PERUVIAN COMPANY.

Shipherd and the Foreign Affairs Committee.

BITTER FEELING MANIFESTED TOWARD GEN. HURLBUT.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Mr. Shipherd was promptly in attendance at the rooms of the Foreign Affairs Committee, at 2 o'clock, accompanied, as usual, by his wife.

Mr. Rice asked him, "Was it not the intention of your clients to offer the Presidency of the Peruvian Company to Gen. Grant?"

Shipherd replied that it had been, but fearing from Grant's letter to Senator Jones there might not be perfect harmony between Gen. Grant and President Garfield, it was not deemed advisable to adhere to their original intention.

Q.—Senator Conkling was one of your counsel?

A.—Not at that time, but afterwards.

Q.—And your relations with Grant afterwards became more harmonious?

A.—Afterwards, we had conferences with him.

Q.—The prospectus you sent to the President did you send to any members of Congress?

A.—My impression is that the copies sent to members of Congress were chiefly sent to Senators.

Being further pressed on this point, and at first declining to give names, he finally mentioned Hewitt of New York. Hewitt sent him a very courteous, verbal response, by a young man who took the papers to him, and to the best of his recollection that was the totality of all the negotiations he had with any member of the House of Representatives.

Quoting part of witness's testimony on Wednesday, Mr. Rice asked him whether he had any other reasons than those then stated, for believing in advance what he affirmed he did believe of Gen. Hurlbut?

Witness—I have Gen. Hurlbut's letters, and some correspondence that is closely affiliated with them. Witness thereupon produced several letters from Mr. Hurlbut, which were read. Two of these, dated Belvidere, Ill., urge Shipherd to obtain from the department official instructions for his (Hurlbut's) guidance, as without these he cannot act. The others, dated at Lima, urge that legal evidence in support of the Peruvian company's claims, be forwarded to him, as otherwise he can take no steps.

In the last letter, dated Lima, Nov. 23, 1881 Hurlbut notifies Shipherd he will hold no further correspondence with him. He says, "You have failed wholly to furnish me with any proof, although requested, and have repeatedly written that instructions were sent or to be sent, which I have never received. The tone of your letters is disagreeable, and I do not wish further communication." Five of witness' own letters to Mr. Hurlbut were then produced by him and read. One, of Oct. 19th, mentions documents that are enclosed and speaks of letters that were delivered through "Hon. Geo. S. Boutwell, the company's attorney at Washington," and says, "I have just returned from Washington, whither I went to show the Secretary your letter to me of Sept 12th, and take his advice upon it. He agrees with me in the confident belief you have somehow widely misapprehended fundamentally material facts and issues, and will join me in the endeavor to set you right. I will endeavor to contribute something towards the result for transmission by next steamer. In the meantime I beg to remind yourself what you seem to have so far totally forgotten, that your first and most important official duty ex virtute offici, is not to help Peru, but to look out for American interests. I do not, for a moment, hesitate to use this frankness in speaking as I do for a citizen to a citizen. The extraordinary attitude you have thought fit to take in judgment of my associates, warrants unqualified frankness and I rely upon your good sense not to mistake frankness for rudeness." The next letter is dated Nov. 7th and says: "I was in Washington several days last week and improved the opportunity to get the views of friends there including the Secretary of State. All approved the precise position taken. An American protectorate was directly discussed and received with general favor. If Calderon should directly apply for it I think Congress would approve the application, but only on the ground that the large private American interests there need protection. It could not be popularized on any other footing, and Calderon should base his application directly and chiefly on this ground if he makes one.

In reply to questions Shipherd said Scott Lord and ex-Senator Eaton were the only two of at least half dozen equally intelligent gentlementwho expressed to him their independent judgment or correspondence which coincided with his own. Shipherd continued: During the summer we found opportunity to communicate directly with Calderon, President of Peru. It was by correspondence addressed to Arizola who stood very near to Calderon. I enclosed the correspondence to Gen. Hurlbut with a request to have it delivered presuming on his courtesy. The letter was written by a gentleman who was here as an official representative of Peru, and as a matter of fact he was addressing his own chief in the interest of Peru exclusively and suggesting how Peru might avail herself of this promise of an opportunity to get out from under the power of Chili. That was the nature of the correspondence I entrusted to the minister, and I placed before him in a separate communication substantially the whole letter so that he might see what the business was. Mr. Hurlbut replied saying, "I have received sealed letter and documents and the letter has been delivered." I shall produce before the committee a letter from Arizola to his correspondent deploring the fact that the documents were not delivered, with the letter because the letter without documents was unintelligible. That was the first fact which attracted my attention but it seemed to me infinitely significant.

I stated the facts to Mr. Lord, who was familiar with the correspondence that had been seen, and I gave him Hurlbut's letter to read without comments. He read it, handed it back to me and with a voice trembling with emotion said, "Hurlbut is a double dammed, deeply dyed villain. That is my opinion in the premises." He went on to say, "There is no conceivable reason why Gen. Hurlbut should have separated these documents from this letter unless he intends to get in between you and Calderon and to prevent your dealing with him." Ex-Senator Eaton was consulted and the facts laid before him and he gave substantially the same opinion and in very strong terms. At least four other gentlemen equally intelligent and capable of forming independent opinions expressed the same opinion (that Hurlbut was certainly inserting himself between me and Calderon with an intention of defeating negotiations and preventing our dealings with him.)

Mr. Rice—Have you stated what those documents were?

Witness—My recollection is they were our prospectus copy of "Truth demonstrated" and probably copies of our proposed agreement with Peru and of a plan for a sinking fund and other features of correspondence which ran through all Hurlbut's letters that there was an utter inability of Hurlbut to find anything in this case. He examined our case here but suggested no difficulty or objection whatever until after he got down on the ground. His very first letter from there inducates he could see nothing in the case at all. He repeatedly suggested we should send somebody down there. This was what amazed and confunded my clients and my counsel. Hurlbut is the only lawyer who has seen any difficulty in finding a case, and at the same time he was ready on certain conditions to help push it forward. One condition was that an order must come from Washington, and the other was that he must have somebody there to co-operate with him. Each of these suggestions by itself is one of the most proper and innocent things but taken in connection with two facts—first, that he in serts himself absolutely between us and President Calderon in order to attempt to defeat our trade with the Peruvian government; and second, that he was not able to find anything in the case after he got there, while in May he had found it perfect and in June found no fault with it—these facts I say made a profound impression on my mind and on that of every gentleman associated with me and with whom I consulted in the matter. There is another point. When Secretary Blaine sent me his letter of December 3d and I then for the first time was made aware that somebody in our about the State Department professed to be shocked by a letter of June 2d which I sent to Hurlburt, the question arose if Hurlbut understood that letter to be a suggestion of improper overture to him. It is incredible he not only should have retained it in silence through all these months but that he should have continued the correspondence with me in which no allusion or suggestion is made that anything improper has been done by me. That was the third point that impressed itself deeply on our minds and the impression in my mind was this—either Mr. Hurlbut is not acting in good faith in professing now to think this is a corrupt overture, or hoped when we sent a man to Lima he might be sent there with instructions enabling him to give the effect of corruptly to that proposition. We seemed shut up to those two alternatives.

Shipherd submitted a letter which he wrote to Walker Blaine last August, asking him to interest himself in the affairs of the Peruvian company. To this letter he never received a direct reply, but Senator Blair told him a few days after the letter was sent that the Secretary had expressed a wish that no further correspondence on the subject be addressed to his assistants in the department.

INFAMOUS ATTEMPT

To Blackmail Hon. Charles Francis Adams of Boston.

THE CRIMINAL IN COURT—DETAILS OF THE THE AFFAIR.

BOSTON, April 7.—J. S. Morrison, arrested Wednesday night for obtaining checks to the value of $20,000 from the Honorable Charles Francis Adams, was arraigned in the Boston municipal court this afternoon and in default of $25,000 was jailed to await action of the grand jury. The real name of the prisoner is James Fitzgerald alias the "Kid," and but little is known of him by the Boston officers, except he has the reputation of a professional banco player.

John L. Norton, wanted for complicity in the Adams swindle was in Taunton this morning. Having left Mansfield just before the detectives arrived. He drew from the Bristol county savings bank $500 deposited there in his own name, and it is thought he has gone to New York. The money recived on the $17,500 check which Mr. Adams was induced to sign has been refunded by Mr. Fernald.

A cunningly devised attempt to extort money from the Hon. Charles Francis Adams, and blackmail his family, resulted in the arrest of the principal rascal concerned in it on the ten o'clock night train to New York on Wednesday night. The facts are as follows: It has been quite generally known that for two years past Mr. Adams, who is now seventy-six years old, has been in failing health. He has of late withdrawn entirely from active and social life, and his memory has become so impaired that, while he can talk quite well of occurences long passed, she retains little and confused recollections of anything recent. As he is a man of perfect routine of life, his family have put off having him attended by any one in the streets fearing that a consciousness of it on his part would agitate and disturb him, and so hasten his decline. He is very generally known, and no accident had ever happened to him. Apparently a gang of operators, who make a business of preying on elderly persons, somehow became more or less cognizant of these facts, and worked him for plunder. The first intimation Mr. Adams's family had of what had taken place came through the Merchants Bank, at which Mr. Adams is the oldest depositor. On Friday last a notice came to Mr. C. H. Richardson, Mr. Adams's clerk, at his office, No. 28 Court street, that Mr. Adams's account at the bank was overdrawn. As it happened, the balance on deposit at the bank at that time was unusually large, amounting to about $18,000, the notice thetof occasioned great surprise and upon inquiry it was found that on Wednesday, March 29, a check for $17,500, regularly signed and endorsed by Mr. Adams, but filled in by-another hand had been deposited for collection by another depositor in the Merchants Bank, and the amount had in due course been transferred from Mr. Adams's account to that of the otnet depositor. The check on which this transfer was made proved to be one in every way calculated to excite suspicion. It was not one of Mr. Adams's usual checks, nor was it filled in by him, while the figures at the top in which the amount was expressed were heavily and clumsily painted over in a way suggestive of "raising." Inquiry was then made of the person who deposited this check. He stated that it had been brought to him for collection by a party whose name he gave, but of whom he professed to know nothing. He further said that the suspicous appearance of the check had attracted his notice, but that after some hesitation he had deposited it, telling the party that he must not draw against it until the following Monday, by which time it would certainly be known if everything was all right. As the $17,500 paid on the unknown check was still in the Merchants Bank to the account to which it had been transferred, that account was at once trusteed, and the whole matter put in the hands of Detective Heath for investigation. When the check was shown to Mr. Adams, he had no recollection of ever having seen it or signed it; nor was he able to recall any transaction with which it was connected. His memory was a complete blank on the subject. He pronounced it a forgery. The law partner of the persont hrough whom the check was deposited next called at Mr Adams's office and informed Mr. Adams's sons and their counsel, Mr. Richard Olney, that the check represented a sum of money lost by Mr. Adams in a gaming transaction. It was intimated that the party taking the check from Mr. Adams was perfectly willing to come forward if guaranteed against immediate arrest and tell the whole story. He was accordingly sent for, and appeared at Mr. Olney's office ar four o'clock Monday afternoon last.

The interview which now took place was most extraordinary. The parties called themselves J. S. Morrison and J. F. Norton, the latter having a desk or office at 1 Pemberton Square. They made no pretence at concealment, counting implicitly, as the principal, Morrison, frankly said, on the belief that Mr. Adams and his family would rather pay almost any sum of money than allow the story to get publicity, he proceeded to give his account of what had taken place. Acknowledging himself to be a professional banco player, as it is called, he said Mr. Adams had been spotted as a good subject for plunder. He (Morrison) had then joined him on the street, near his house, as he was leaving his house to take a walk, on Tuesday, March 28th, at about 11 a. m., pretending to be a son of an old political friend of Mr. Adams'. Making himself extremely polite, he had asked permission to accompany him on his walk, and had, by degrees, beguiled him to a place on Boylston street, where his gang operated. On one pretence or another, he had then induced Mr. Adams to enter the house and a room in which the game of banco was then going on. While there, he said, Mr. Adams appeared to be confused, and not to know what was being done; but he was finally induced to sign and indorse three checks—one for $17,500, one for $1,000, and a third for $250,—the largest one only of which had been presented. Morrison frankly said that he didn't think Mr. Adams knew at all what he was about; that he (Morrison) had pretended all through to be his friend, and that finally he had left the house and walked home with him, quieting his agitation, and telling him that the thing would be all right, and leaving him at his own door. A confederate had then watched and seen Mr. Adams presently come out of the house, accompanied by two ladies, enter a carriage, apparently quite serene, and go off to drive. It was concluded, therefore, that he had made up his mind to let the checks be paid, that the game had succeeded, and the plunder was safe. The man then went on in perfect confidence to describe how he had done this repeatedly before, expressing a perfect willingness to be brought face to face with Mr. Adams, and his confidence that he would never deny the story or disavow his signature. Norton, it was professed, had not been present in the banco room. He had simply advanced Morrison money on the check. His only interest was to get that money back. At the same time he made no pretence of not being a confederate in the banco business, and the two with an effrontery which was absolutely astonishing, referred to their numerous transactions in the kind of "papers," as they called it, giving even the names of victims, and describing how, after a sufficient amount of struggling, they always submitted and paid up. Finally they intimated their perfect faith that Mr. Adams' family would submit and pay up in this case. They would never allow such a scandal to be made public. After an hour's conversation the fellows withdrew. The next day, on a promise that they should be returned they sent in to Olney for examination the two outstanding checks for $1600 and $250, which also proved to be signed and endorsed by Mr. Adams and filled up in another hand. They were, however, quite regular in appearance and if presented first would undoubtedly have been paid before detection. Fortunately, the conspirators in their over-confidence tried the largest amount.

Meanwhile, neither Mr. Olney nor those about Mr. Adams were able to get from him any corroboration of the conspirators' story. His memory was a blank. He could not remember where he had been at the time fixed, or separate the occurrences of that day from those of any other. Neither on that day in question nor the succeeding days, until the appearance of the check, had there been anything in his manner indicative of agitation or that something unusual had occurred. He was placid and serene as usual. Finally, however, on Tuesday last, the member of his family most accustomed to the working of his mind, touched the right chord. The result was the gradual eliciting of a narrative confused and disconnected, it is true, but still corresponding in so many particulars with the story told by Morrison as to leave no reasonable doubt that he had been the victim of a fraud substantially such as Morrison had described. He could be in no way induced to admit however, that he had signed any checks.

The substantial facts of the case being thus ascertained, it was felt by Mr. Adams and his sons that but one course was open to them; that however painful and distressing the publicity of such a matter, there was a duty to the public which they had no right to leave undischarged. The rascals must be prosecuted to the extent of the law. Accordingly on Tuesday, the day after the interview with the two conspirators at Mr. Olney's office, the matter was quietly laid before District-Attorney Stevens, and through him on Wednesday brought to the notice of the grand jury. It was not intended to arrest the men until Friday or Saturday, and meanwhile they were watched by detectives. In spite of his bold exterior, Morrison had, however, taken the alarm. Accompanied by a woman he went to the Boston and Albany station on Wednesday, after a long interview with his counsel, and took the ten o'clock New York train, parting with the woman in the station. The detective allowed him to take his seat and start, arresting him between the depot and the "know-nothing" stops at the Providence crossing, when he was taken from the train and locked up. So quietly was the thing done that no rumor of it got abroad.

It is needless to add that Mr. Adams's family having advisedly adopted their course, propose to follow it out to the extremity of the law. They believe they have as yet laid hold of but two of a large and hitherto successful gang of the worst kind of operators. They will be likely to spare no efforts to ferret out the rest of them. Least of all will any fear of scandal or publicity deter them from so doing.

Base Ball.

WESTERN WINDS.

Kansas and Michigan Visited by a Cyclone.

DWELLINGS DEMOLISHED AND A NUMBER OF PERSONS KILLED.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 7.—A cyclone which started near Raymond, Rice county, last night moved northerly and prostrated telegraph poles when it crossed the Sante Fe railroad tracks. John Wilson's house was blown down, Mrs. Wilson killed and Mrs. Parker fatally injured. Several large and strongly built houses were demolished in the neighborhood. Proceeding northward the storm struck the town of Chase, demolishing 20 out of 26 buildings there and throwing cars from the track. Mr. Read, a hotel keeper, was killed and his wife fatally injured. Another woman and a child were also killed. All the inhabitants of Chase were more or less injured, but few escaping without a hurt of some kind. The people are living in box cars, and many families are in a destitute condition.

A small cyclone passed through the eastern part of Rice county, but it did but little damage. It was accompanied by a water spout, pouring a deluge of water in some places and drowning everything loose in other parts. The wind sucked all of the water out of the wells. As the clouds approached Chase it was in the shape of a funnel, whirling and twisting with fearful velocity.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., Sept. 7.—A terrible hurricane passed near Highland Station, on the Flint and Pere Marquette road south of Holly, early yesterday evening. The extent of damage done is not yet known, as the telegraph line was blown down. The dwelling of Mr. Crandall was blown down. Mr. Crandall and one child were killed and his daughter severely injured. Mrs. Taylor of Pontiac was also killed, and several other persons more or less injured. The hurricane covered an area less than half a mile, but it is reported to have leveled everything in its path.

CHICAGO, April 7.—A terrific tornado swept through the township of Kalamo, Mich., last night, doing immense damage. Several lives are reported lost and many injured. Later particulars of the Oakland county storm say Lafayette Randall, his sister and little boy and Mrs. Henry Tyler were killed. A sister of Horace Sherman of Kalomo was killed and the whole family were carried fifty rods, thrown into a swamp and badly bruised.

THE NEXT HORROR.

Another Mississippi Steamer Blown Up.

SEVERAL LIVES LOST—HEART-RENDING SCENES WITNESSED.

LA CROSSE, Wis., April 7.—Early this morning the boiler of steamer Bella Mac exploded near Brownsville a few miles below this city. The explosion completely wrecked the upper works of the steamer causing a loss of life and fearful injury to many of her officers and crew. The crew consisted of 17 men including officers. Of these five are missing, one dead and three probably fatally injured. The remainder were more or less hurt. The injured were brought to this city and are being cared for. After the accident all was dark and cries of the men for help from on board and in the water were heart-rending. The Bella Mac was a comparatively new boat, this being her third year of service and she has been considered perfectly safe. She is owned in this city and valued at $8000. The cause of the disaster cannot be learned. The second engineer says the boiler had plenty of water and at the time of the explosion he was carrying about 135 pounds of steam.

LAWLESS DEEDS.

Desperate Acts of a Party of Horse Thieves.

EXETER N. H., April 7.—John Gibbs Epping heard parties in his barn last night, about 10 o'clock, and going out found his horse harnessed and standing near the gate. He called out, when some person shot him through the arm with a pistol. Mrs. Gibbs came out and picked him up, when she was shot at but not hit. The parties escaped. The doctor thinks Gibbs arm will have to be amputated.

An Outrager Lynched.

CHARLESTON, Va., April 7.—A mob of 60 men last night, captured steamer Sallie Freeze at Raymond City, went to Winfield, took a negro named Joseph Smith out of jail and and hanged him to a tree early this morning. He had committed an outrage two weeks ago, on the wife of a section hand on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad.

The Senate committee has recommended that a pension be given to Sarah C. Golderman the widow of Augustus Golderman of Mechanic Falls, Me., who was captain of company C, 17th regiment, Maine volunteers, and who was wounded in the knee at the battle of Chancellorsville. The pain from this wound finally affected his sanity, and he committed suicide by hanging, but it could not be shown that the death from this cause was the direct result of the wound. So his widow petitioned Congress, and will probably be placed on the pension roll.

The Garfield Family.

"The Garfield Family" is the title of a picture representing the late President Garfield grouped with his mother, wife and children, on the evening before he left Mentor for Washington. The picture is pleasing,—soft and delicate in general effect, and firm in line,—and the portraits are of marked merit. It is something desirable to have, and will doubtless grace the walls of many a New England home. The height of the theme and the very general and affectionate interest felt in it, commend the subject to the engraver, and he seems to have lavished loving care upon it. The work is issued by the long established firm of R. H Curran & Co., Pemberton Square, Boston.

THE FIRST PARISH.

Original Hymn by Rev. Dr. Hill.

A communion service appropriate to Fast Day was held at the First Parish church last evening. There was no address. The order of services was as follows:

Music:
"The Lord is in His holy temple."
Reading from Old Testament.
Hymn 244.
Reading from New Testament.
Original Hymn.

The exalted Son of God, this day;
Endured the cross for me;
Thro' death's deep shadows held His way
That death might conquered be.

Beset with horrows was the road;
Unfaltering He passed on;
With meakness bore the heavy load
And thus the victory won.

Already at the victor's feet
The tyrant, Sin, lay slain
Death's death the triumph made complete:
No enemies remain.

Oh! sinful man, for thee He fought,
He conquered both for thee;
It was His sufferings that brought
Pardon, and set thee free.

The hymn was sung to the tune of "Burford" by Spohr.

East Portland Improvement Society.

At the last meeting of the above society, held at Peaks Island Thursday, April 6th, the proceedings were opened with a selection played by the island band. Prayer was offered by Rev. T. P. Adams. Choice entertainment was afforded by Mr. Geo. Batty of Portland in his various musical specialties. A lengthy and exceedingly interesting paper was read by F. G. Rich, Esq., representing the transient or "cottage" circle of island society; Mr. Rich's paper was directed more especialy toward moral and social improvement, as he preferred to leave the more material and physical aspects of the question in the hands of the island people.

The corresponding secretary was called upon to report progress in the matter of securing proposals for supplying the shade trees wanted by the society; on complying he stated the offer of Mr. Elijah Varney of Windham was deemed most suitable of the many reported, and the society by a practically unanimous vote accepted the same. Mr. Varney by this action of the society has secured a contract of considerable importance, and as an immediate result the summer visitor will find this season something like a thousand shade trees growing where none were before. Mr. Sanford addressed the meeting on the subject of placing the house-lots which are for sale in the hands of some individual who could and would attend to the matter, and from the tenor of the remarks following we infer that the intending purchaser will shortly be able to find a list of such lots with the requisite information in regard to them at some central and convenient place—probably at the island post office.

The Rev. T. P. Adams expressed great regret at his enforced leaving of the place; he has been at Peaks Island for the last three years, and the rules of the M. E. Conference forbid a longer stay. Mr. Adams stated that during his connection with the ministry he had lived in all or nearly all parts of the State of Maine but had never left a village or town with such reluctance as in the present instance—a fact which speaks well for Peaks Island and well for the reverend gentleman also. Mr. Adams was assured that the regret was mutual, and that the society was losing a valued minister.

Remarks on this and other subjects were made by a number of gentlemen present, a paper was circulated in connection with the tree business, the band played a rousing march and the meeting adjourned for two weeks.

Balls.

The Easter season will be inaugurated by a grand ball, given by the I. A. R. A. at City Hall on Monday evening next. The association is celebrated for the popularity of its Easter festivals, and this will prove no exception to the rule. Chandler's Quadrille Band will provide the music and excellent refreshments will be provided in Reception Hall.

Prominent among the gentlemen well known in military circles who will attend the exhibition by the Montgomery Guards in Lewiston, Monday evening, will be Inspector General J. J. Lynch, Col. George F. McQuillan, Major Hill, of Gen. Chamberlain's staff, Adjutant Swett and the line officers of the First Regiment. It is the earnest desire of the company that the line officers of this city will attend in uniform in order to take part in the military pageant at the hall.

Art.

Among the pictures of A. T. Bricher and D. Jerome Elwell, now on exhibition at Doll & Richards', Boston, we notice (of the former collection) "On the Balcony, Cape Elizabeth," "A Still Morning, Portland;" "Lone Rocks, Cape Elizabeth;" "Sea Gull Rocks, Portland;" "Cape Elizabeth Cliffs;" "A Hot Morning, Portland;" "A Good Surf, Cape Elizabeth." "Cape Elizabeth Lights;" "Lion Rock, Portland;" "Near Cape Cottage;" "Entrance to Portland Harbor." There are but a few painted in this vicinity. Mr. Elwell's are on Venetian and Dutch subjects.

SPLENDID STOCK.

A Portland Man's Great Stock Farm.

One of the best known and most successful firms of importers and breeders of stock in this country is that of George E. Brown & Co., of Aurora, Ill., and a visit to their stock farm, just outside the western limits of that city, will well repay any admirer of noble horses and fine cattle, whether novice or expert. The Aurora Beacon says the firm is composed of Messrs. George E. Brown, resident here, and C. A. Brown of Portland, Me., a prominent manufacturer of wood pulp paper stock. Mr. George E. Brown, the active partner, was the pioneer in importing Holstein cattle to the West, and has made a specialty of the business for the past ten years. It having been determined that the headquarters of the firm should be in the West, he removed from Massachusetts in 1875, bringing their cattle and horses with him, and located at Elgin; but their stock proved immensely popular, and their business so increased as to soon outgrow their accommodations, and in casting about for more room it became apparent that Aurora offered better facilities than any other point, while at the same time being easy of access by rail from every direction. They leased Geo. Sheldon's large farm, just beyond the city limits on the Galena road, only about a mile from the depot, and took possession three years ago. Quite extensive improvements were made at that time, but so fast has their business increased that each year they have been compelled to extend their facilities by the erection of new buildings, and they are now putting up two new barns, 60 and 80 feet respectively, which will afford them a total length of 410 feet of barns. The absolute necessity for more room raised the question of purchasing suitable territory; consequently the brother, Mr. C. A. Brown, came West a little while ago, and together they looked over several large farms in this vicinity, but those considered most desirable for their purpose were not for sale, and we imagine the project was abandoned for the present, as they have since commenced the two new barns above mentioned.

In the way of cattle the firm confine themselves to Holsteins. Mr. Geo. E. Brown visits Europe every summer and makes his selections from the famous herds of the Netherlands; pure, registered animals. They are large, finely formed, gentle, tractable, hardy, and give an enormous yield of rich milk for the dairy. At all fairs and stock shows G. E. Brown & Co.'s stock have taken all the honors. Their sales of calves amounted to over $6,000 in 1881, of $225, each for calves from eight to fourteen months old. Both as milk and beef these Holsteins are unrivalled.

Their imported Cleveland Bay and English draft horses are splendid animals. The latter are large, heavy, with great depth of chest, massive shoulders, firm, hard, smooth legs with well defined joints, gentle in disposition, graceful and easy of movement. The Cleveland Bays are a large elegant horse, standing 16 1-4 to 16 1-2 hands, weighing 1,350 to 1,500 pounds, with fine head, full, bright eye, long arch neck, oblique shoulders, deep chest, short back, long quarters, strong clean legs and feet, and flowing manes and tails.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

RENTZ-SANTLEY.

Mr. Leavitt's novelty and burlesque company filled Portland Theatre with one of the largest, and certainly the most demonstrative, audiences of the season last night. If shouts of laughter and thunders of applause are a criterion of pleasure then that audience was thoroughly pleased. It was a very good, clean entertainment; all the actors good and some excellent. Manchester and Jennings are very amusing song and dance artists; Miss Lizzie Daly a capital clog dancer; Miss Lottie Elliott immense in her skipping rope business; the Etzeltine Sisters fair club swingers; Dolph Levino a second Regamey in the excellence of his charcoal sketches of prominent men—last night he presented Garfield, Washington, Guiteau and Hancock—and the other performers are entitled to a word. The evening's amusement closed with a funny burlesque "Haze-L-Kirk." To-night the "Mash-Got" will be substituted for "Haze-L-Kirk."

NOTES.

The list of talent engaged for the Cary concert is large; Miss Caty, Miss Long, the Temple Quartette of Boston, Cecilia and Weber Clubs of Portland, with Harvey Murry accompanist. Stockbridge has a few tickets.

"The Mascotte" will be produced Fast afternoon and evening at Portland Theatre by Miss Leila Farrell's company, the "Legion of Honor" party having cancelled their engagements. The sale of seats will commence Monday next.

The tickets are selling well at Stockbridge's for the performances of "Patience" to be given at City Hall on Fast afternoon and evening by the Boston English Opera Company.

"61-65" will prove one of the most interesting and dramatic productions the Bosworth Post have ever put on the boards.

Miss Cary is quite ill in New York, with a sore throat, and cannot sing in the "Passion Music," which is to be given by the Handel and Haydn Society on Friday. The contralto solos will be taken by Miss Mathilde Phillips and Miss Edith Abell, both of whom have made successful appearances in this work.

The Boston Post says: "Miss Nellie McHenry is one of the kind whose spirits seem never to be exhausted. She's just full of dash and go, and her liveliness and Nat Saulsbury's drollery make a very jolly lot of fun at the Globe."

Visiting Grand Army Boys.

Last evening, at 7.30 p m., a special train over the Maine Central, arrived in this city from Lewiston, bringing, as guests of Bosworth Post, G. A. R., a large delegation from Burnside Post of Auburn and Custer Post of Lewiston, in all about 75 comrades. The visitors were received by a special committee from Bosworth Post, and escorted, to the music of drum and fife, to Grand Army Hall. The officers of the visiting posts present on this occasion were, from Burnside Post, Commander Thomas Tyrie, Junior Vice Commander J. E. Ashe, Officer of the Day G. D. Barnum, Chaplain George Lothrop, Sergeant Major C. Campbell; from Custer Post, Adjutant C. H. Gardiner and Officer of the Day G. W. Leathers. Inspector General of the Department of Maine E. M. Shaw of Lisbon, with Aide-de-Camp J. M. Sherman of Lewiston, were guests of Burnside Post.

Immediately after arrival at the hall, the work of the evening—mustering in recruits—was performed by Bosworth Post, to the great interest and pleasure of the visitors. At its conclusion, brief addresses of pleasure at their reception and the work they had witnessed, were made by Gen. Shaw, Commander Tyrie, Little—the postmaster of Auburn—Chandler and others of the guests, and responded to by Post Commander Geo. H. Abbott, on behalf of Bosworth Post.

The party then adjourned to the banquet hall, where a camp-fire was lighted, an excellent collation served, and at 11 p. m. the boys returned home by a special train, apparently much pleased with their reception.

Mr. Payson Tucker, courteous, as he always is, placed special trains at the disposition of the visitors.

Possibly Fatal Accident.

About 6 p. m. yesterday as Mr. George Shackford was driving home on his jigger when near the Maine Central crossing at the West End church, a number of boys jumped on the jigger for a ride. A few moments after a team belonging to Mr. Whitney came galloping past without a driver and Mr. Shackford's horses sprang to one side throwing one of the boys named Dennis Donovan off the jigger. One of the wheels ran over him inflicting two serious scalp wounds and fracturing the skull so badly that nine pieces of bone were extracted and sixteen stitches taken in the scalp. The little fellow—only seven years of age—was picked up by letter carrier E. H. Marriner, and Mr. Shackford carried him to his home near by. They boy also had one side and leg badly bruised. The doctors thought he would probably succumb to his injuries.

The Cary Concert.

MR. EDITOR:—It is pleasant to recall, in anticipation of Miss Cary's concert for the benefit of the Maine General Hospital, the former concerts given by that accomplished lady in aid of the same charity, in the earlier days of its establishment. And it is peculiarly gratifying that a singer of Miss Cary's world-wide reputation, to whom all nations have done honor, should turn to her own home in saying farewell to her public life, and that what we understand is to be her last appearance on the concert stage should be among us and in aid of the same beneficent institution to which she formerly contributed so largely of her time and her talents. The approaching concert will have a triple interest to our people, as being an occasion of high musical enjoyment, a public farewell to our gifted songstress, and the expression of her benevolence towards a noble institution of charity. MAINE MILITIA.

ADJUTANT GENERAL BEAL'S REPORT

Criticism of Portland Companies.

The annual report of Adjutant General Beal to the Governor has just been published. INSPECTOR GENERAL'S CRITICISM.

Inspector General Lynch reports that he inspected the Portland Mechanic Blues June 1, the Light Infantry June 2, and the Montgomery Guards June 3. The drilling of these companies is criticised, as well as the Brown Light Artillery as follows:

PORTLAND LIGHT INFANTRY.

Inspector received on time. First Sergeant called roll without piece, the company with bayonets fixed. Steadiness of men excellent. One man without gloves. Pieces, clothing and equipments in good condition. Butts of pieces protruded. Sizing poor. Set-up good. In opening ranks, men did not turn head and eyes to right, and the Lieutenants placed themselves too far from the right and left of the front rank. Officers did not address each other by military titles. Discipline good. Salute fair, and generally recognized. Time in manual poor and men unsteady. At fix and unfix bayonets, men looked toward scabbards. Carry arms in three motions from order. Position of pieces not vertical in many of the movements. Shoulders drooped at support. Loading and firing poor. "Backward in line, march." "Right by flank, march." "Company right wheel, march." During the obliques the fours did not preserve their parallelism. Officers halted before turning. Guides stepped backward during the wheel. Right by twos, march—rear rank did not close to facing distance at first command. Forming single rank from double, company marked time. Guide too far from head of column. "Aim," rear rank did not move feet. "Right forward fours right, march," the right guard placed himself in front of the left file of the right four at the first command. Company slow to dress. In fixing and unfixing bayonets from carry, pieces were carried to left side with right hand "Charge bayonets," executed by company in two motions. "Right forward fours right, march," right four did not shorten step. "Forward" after wheeling by fours. At parade rest, bodies turned partly around. "Halt," without preparatory command. Side step at right shoulder. Line poorly formed by column.

This company has a pleasantly located armory, fitted up in neat style, and well arranged for the security of property. The conduct of the men was admirable, both in and out of ranks, showing perfect discipline, while their steadiness during the long and trying inspection of fifty minutes, was not excelled by that of any company in the State. Not a man was observed to move. The company should spend more time in drill. The books are neatly kept. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and twenty minutes.

PORTLAND MECHANIC BLUES.

Inspector received on time. Sergeant called roll without piece, and out of place; reported poorly to captain. Company poorly sized. A few men failed to come to order after roll-call. Coats unbuttoned. Men turned partly around and dropped hands at fix and unfix bayonets. Butts not on a line. Back of hands to front. Some men without collars. Shoes unclean. Talking in ranks, and leaving without permission. Men unsteady. Lieutenant wore hat on side of head. Watch chains exposed on clothing. Set-up poor. Books not sufficiently neat. Condition of armory, excellent. "Side step" in double time; men stepped off before the command march. Extra step in halt. Guides, acting as pivots, backed into line on the wheel. Obliquing poor, and men lost distance. After halting at an oblique, a few men did not face to front. "Back step" executed in common time. "Halt," without preparatory command. One command given by an officer with sword in scabbard. "Left dress" given after "right dress," before the command "front." Salutes by Lieutenants, poor. Feet suffled on floor. First Lieutenant held head down while marching. "Forward" given in wheeling by fours. "By the right flank, march;" command of execution given as left foot struck the floor. Very heavy stamp at mark time. "Column, forward." "On the right into line." Distances in column of twos, poor. "Column to the right." Line poorly formed from column. Pivots bad. At "company, halt," several partially halted at the preparatory command. Carry from an order in three motions. Present very heavy. At support, shoulder and left hands dropped. At trail, pieces almost parallel to floor. Stacks well made, but men did not take position of soldier. At "Take, arms," many pieces not brought to the order. No loading and firing, for want of practice. Manual door.

The armory of this company is one of the finest in the State, and perhaps for neatness cannot be excelled. The drill hall is used in common with Co. "A," and is large and airy and well adapted to the execution of all movements. The books were not sufficiently neat, having the appearance of carelessness on the part of the clerk. The property is well cared for. The inspection and drill were not such as the time bestowed by the officers and men would warrant, many of the men being careless and slow to execute the commands, while the discipline of the company could have been better. I was pleased with the material composing this command, the officers being well instructed; but improvement can be brought about only by persistent labor.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and twenty minutes.

MONTGOMERY GUARDS.

Inspector received one-half hour after time. Roll properly called. Inspection ceremonies excellent. Men very steady. Set up and sizing good. Clothing well fitting. Arms and equipments in good condition. Two men without collar. Two men talked in ranks. Books very neat and properly kept. Discipline good. Feet shuffled in backward march. Distances in columns of fours sometimes increased. "Mark time, march," from a halt. In wheeling, guides acted as pivots, and backed into line, the marching flank quickening the step. Halt too heavy. "To the rear, march," guide omitted. "Forward" after wheeling by fours. In forming line from column of fours, file closers passed around flanks of company. "Halt" without preparatory command. At the completion of the wheel, the line was broken into column of fours before "forward march," was given. "Right wheel, march" from "backward march." Salutes very good. "Left oblique, march," while company was at right oblique. Too much distance in column of twos. Corporal saluted by touching his cap while at a carry. "Company, halt," one piece brought to carry before halting, and one man moved after completion of the movement. First Lieutenant held head down while passing around the flank. In reverse arms, three pieces raised too high. Men moved head at right shoulder. Manual good; loading and firing excellent.

The armory of this company is centrally located, and well arranged and adapted to the security of property. There are two rooms. One contains convenient closets in which the uniforms are stored. The other, which is devoted to meetings and company business, is tastily fitted up and carpeted. Over these rooms is the drill hall, large and well lighted. The books are excellently kept, and may be taken as models of neatness and clerkship. The arms and uniforms are in good condition.

The formation and dismissal of the company were excellent, the men being quick to execute commands. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and thirty minutes.

BROWN LIGHT ARTILLERY.

Inspector received one half hour after time. Inspection ceremonies fairly performed. Second Lieutenant, during inspection, faced company, then to front, taking position of parade rest. Company well sized. Set-up very good. Material excellent. Clothing neat and well fitting. Arms and equipments in good condition. Butts protruded. Men steady. A few without collars and gloves. Discipline good. Armory in good order. Books well kept. Carry in three motions from order. Fix and unfix bayonets fairly done. Charge bayonets in two motions. No practice in loading and firing. Manual fair, considering the company has had but little experience, and spends more time at artillery drill, in which is shown more proficiency. Pivots careless. "Right forward, fours right, march," right four did not take short step. "Mark time, march," from a halt. In wheeling, some men did not turn head and eyes towards marching flank. Feet shuffled on floor. Files not covered. Forming line from column, fours gained distance, and lines were broken. Many movements not practiced. Salutes good.

Considering that this platoon has not been long organized, and is required to become proficient in both the infantry and artillery branches of the service, the inspection and drill were very creditable. The discipline was good, the material excellent, the officers were well versed in military matters and able to instruct those under them. The armory hardly serves the double purpose of artillery drill and storing property. In infantry drill the platoon uses the hall of Co. "E." The arms, equipments and clothing were in good condition, and the books very well kept.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, one hour and thirty minutes.

The Biddeford public library has over 3,000 volumes. Fifty volumes were added last year. There are 150 regular subscribers. Mrs. Geo. Sweetser is librarian.

Bowdoin College.

BRUNSWICK, April 7.

Seldom does a larger and more appreciative audience assemble at Lemont Hall than the one of last evening. The occasion being the Senior and Junior exhibition of the classes, '82 and '83. The parts were all well written and rendered. If any criticism should be made, it would be of the slight hesitancy on the part of some of the Seniors, which, no doubt, was due to the short time given them to prepare their parts. The following was the programme:

Music.
Salutatory Oration in Latin, C. H. Gilman, Portland
Freedom of Opinion ..... W. O. Plimpton, Litchfield
Washington and Bonaparte—Original Version from Chateaubriand ..... *E. A. Packard, Auburn
Our Inheritance ..... C. E. Stinchfield, Brunswick
Music.
Are Men Gaining the Master over Things? W. A. Moody, Kennebunkport
Protection the Means, Free Trade the End, W. E. Mason, North Conway, N. H.
Cotta, the Consul, to the People—Original Version from Sallust ..... *N. B. K. Pettingill, Augusta
The Huguenots ..... W. W. Curtis, Freeport
Vibius Virius to the Capuans—Original Version from Livy ..... *H. A. Bascom, Portland
Monopoly ..... J. F. Libby, Locke's Mills
Socrates' Last Words to his Judges—Original Version from Plato ..... †E. F. Holden, East Otisfield
New England's Influence, M. H. Goodwin, Gorham
Music.

*—Juniors. †—Excused.

We should do an injustice did we not take this opportunity to express our appreciation of the musical part of the programme, which was furnished by Grimmer's eight. The music was in every way satisfactory, in fact, far exceeded our expectations, the general expression being that in no previous exhibition has music of such rare excellence been furnished. The following pieces were rendered.

Overture—Romantique ..... Keler Bela
Polka—Canary—Piccolo Solo ..... Reed
Medley—Bowdoin ..... Grimmer
Galop—All for Joy ..... Fahrbach

The usual term "German" took place after the exhibition and was greatly enjoyed by all who participated.

The winter term closed to-day, and we now have an opportunity of enjoying a vacation of ten days.

The Democratic War Horses.

Thirteen counties were represented at the meeting of the Democratic State committee at the Augusta house Thursday evening. Among the war horses in attendance were E. Stone, Biddeford; Edmund Wilson, Thomaston; L. H. Murch, Belfast; John B. Redman, Ellsworth; John M. Adams, Portland; Chas. H. Chase, Portland; S. Clifford Belcher, Farmington; Dana Goff, Auburn; Henry Farrington, Gardiner; F. B. Torrey, Bath; B. B. Haskell, Waldoboro; J. H. Martin, Camden; J. J. Parlin, North Anson. The manipulators of the wires were in a less buoyant mood than on their previous visit to this city in February. The spring elections evidently had had a somewhat depressing effect on the spirits of the unterrified, although members of the committee reported the outlook bright in certain sections of the State. Quite a protracted discussion arose over the matter of holding the State convention. The claims of Bangor, Augusta and Lewiston were canvassed. It was decided to hold the convention in Lewiston on June 27th, instead of in Augusta, as in case of an extra session of the Legislature there would not be suitable hotel accommodations in this city at the time. The "call" for the convention was discussed, and it was resolved to fire the democratic heart with this effusion. The committee were divided on the expediency of holding a special session of the Legislature.—Kennebec Journal.

Wit and Wisdom.

A man traveling in New Hampshire and seeing a laborer at work in a field said, rather pityingly to him: "You must have a hard time of it, this land is so rocky and barron?" And the laborer replied: "Yes, stranger, it is poor land. But don't think I'm so poor as I seem, I don't own any of it."

Notes from Alaska.

To the Editor of the Press:

I have received a letter from a friend in Sitka, Alaska, and I thought some of she items would be interesting to the public. He writes, Oct. 5, 1881:

He says, "I planted a garden a month late, but as the season has been unusually fine it turned out better than I expected. We raised nice potatoes, cabbages, cauliflower, lettuce, radishes, beets, turnips and green peas. The peas came from the Agricultural Department at Washington. They were a dwarf pea, growing about thirty inches high. They began to blossom when that height but kept on growing and are growing still, although they were blown down when they were some eight or nine feet high. We have so much rain and the days are so long in the summer that anything that will grow, grows very luxuriantly.

Before Sitka was turned over to the United States three thousand Russians lived here, and there were some twelve or fourteen hundred Indians. But all the Russians were offered a free passage to Russia, and the larger part of the better class left. Now we have about three hundred Russians and fifty or sixty whites of different nationalities, not counting the men on the United States steamer, Wachusetts.

Gold was discovered at a place called Takoo about two hundred miles north of here, last Fall, and nearly all the whites rushed in there this Spring. Where a year ago there was nothing but a forest there is now a town of three hundred inhabitants and by next Fall there may be as many thousand.

The houses of Sitka are built of logs, some of them squared and then cased with two-inch planks. Some of them are very large. Our house is ninety by forty feet and two and one-half stories high. The castle and guard house are much larger.

The business of the Russians is salmon fishing until they get enough to buy hoochinoo, a vile kind of liquor made from molasses, distilled in kerosene cans. Their custom is to keep dead drunk just as long as the hoochinoo lasts.

As to marriage relation, there is none. Their religion is that of the Greek church. It is a standing joke that the Priest has the best whiskey, and I have heard them laugh at the necessity of carrying him home from a "drunk" on a shutter. As to the Indians, their contact with the whites has as usual been a bad thing for them. They have dwindled from 1400 to about 800. A white man first taught them how to make hoochinoo, which has been a great curse to them. They are divided into different families and if one kills another purposely or by accident one of the other family must be killed, or compensation made in blankets as agreed upon. A few months ago the Sitkas imprisoned a Chilcat for threatening the life of a Sitka. He hung himself during the night. In a couple of months three Chilcat chiefs came with a force and demanded two hundred blankets or the life of a Sitka Indian. After a long war-wan—talk—they settled the matter for seventy blankets.

Up at Takoo, two little Indian boys were playing with hatchets and one of them accidentally cut the other's toe off. They came to the officer there to settle it. He asked them what they wanted. The father of the untoed boy said he thought it would be fair to cut the other boy's toe off in the same place. The officer would not allow this, therefore the toe was paid for with twenty-seven yards of calico. In case of a murder they would rather kill one of the murderer's friends than the murderer, for they say he has to die anyway, so that it is no punishment to kill him, but if they kill one of his friends they make him feel sorry as long as he lives.

JOSEPH KYTE.

Dr. B. F. Rudisill of Forsyth, Ga., while rolling tempins, bowled himself over and broke his leg. The fact that the ball took down every pin didn't quite satisfy him with the result.—Boston Post.

"Pa," asked little Johnny, "what does the teacher mean by saying that I must have inherited my bad temper?" "She meant, Johnny, that you are your mother's own boy."—Boston Transcr pt.

Lawn Dressing.

Messrs. C. W. Belknap & Son

Manufacture and keep constantly on hand a Lawn Dressing which is second to none in the world; every article of which it is composed is food for grass. It also effectually drives earth worms from the lawns, and likewise kills moss, which is often so troublesome in old lawns. After applying stable manures to lawn, also Superphosphates and many other lawn dressings now in use, it is a long time before he children can be allowed to play on them on account of the offensive odor. Not so with the composition which we offer to the public, for there is nothing of which it is composed to prevent children using the lawn as a play ground at any and all times.

Try it and you will use no other.

Put up in bags of 10, 25, 50 and 100 pounds.

Directions in each bag.

It may also be found at Messrs. Kendall & Whitney's, Market Square, W. C. Sawyer & Co.'s, No. 7 Preble Street, Geo. Blanchard & Brouers, No. 46 Union Street, and A. A. Mitchell's, corner High and Commercial Street.

IT IS A HOME COMPANY.

INCONTESTIBLE POLICIES! All policies issued after Nov. 16, 1881 are incontestible after three years from the date of the policies for any cause except fraud or mistatement of age.

ITS DEFINITE CONTRACT POLICY provides for every contingency which can occur during its continuance, and is so simple and clear that even a child can understand it.

ITS MAINE LAW EXTENSION is the most just and perfect plan for protecting the interest of the policy-holder ever devised.

ACCELERATED ENDOWMENTS! Whenever the reserve upon the policy and the dividend additions thereto, amount to the sum insured, the policy becomes payable at once as a matured endowment.

CITY OF PORTLAND.

Assessors' Notice.

THE Assessors of the City of Portland hereby give notice to all persons liable to taxation in said city that they will be in session every secular day from the first to the fifteenth day of April next, inclusive, at their room in City Hall, from ten to twelve o'clock in the forenoon, and from three to five o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of receiving lists of the polls and estates taxable in said city.

And all such persons are hereby notified to make and bring to said Assessors true and perfect lists of all their polls and estates, real and personal, or held by them as guardian, executor, administrator, trustee, or otherwise, on the first day of April, 1882, and be prepared to make oath to the truth of the same.

And when estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from any cause, the executor, administrator, or other person interested, is hereby warned to give notice of such change, and in default of such notice will be held under the law to pay the tax assessed, although such estate has been wholly distributed and paid over.

And any person who neglects to comply with this notice will be doomed to a tax according to the laws of the State, and be barred of the right to make application to the County Commissioners for any abatement of his taxes, unless he shows that he was unable to offer such lists within the time hereby appointed.

In no case where the Assessors have been put to the disagreeable necessity of making a doom will the possession of Government bonds or deposits in the Savings Banks be allowed as a plea in mitigation of such doom.
